

Richard Pomfret (Ph.D) is a professor of Economics at the University of Adelaide, Australia. He has experience as a policy adviser and researcher; his interests include development economics; international economics and trade. He was Regional Adviser on macroeconomic policy to the Asian republics of the former Soviet Union for the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific from 1992 to 1994. Between 1979 -1991, he was Professor of Economics at Johns Hopkins University and 1979-1988 Associate Professor at the University of Bologna. He has held other teaching related positions in Canada, France, Germany and China. He has been a consultant to OECD, UNDP, World Bank and the World Health Organization. Amongst his 220 publications are seventeen books and textbooks on issues of international trade and development economics.